Religious Tests-Catholic Disability.

The sphere of our discussions is moral, religious readers with a summary of events making up the current history of the day, and which it behooves them to know, we have steadily recognized an inplied covenant towards them, not to meddle with their politics, to cast not a feather's weight on either side of questions dividing them as citizens of the State. If on our part this covenant has not been faithfully kept, this we can say, with a good conscience, we have tried to keep it, and are ignorant

The proceedings of the Convention lately assembled in Philadelphia, whose platform is published in another column, were watched by us with great interest. Ecclesiastical matters were early introduced. An attempt was made, principally by Southern men, to throw them out. But the "Catholic test" was affirmed, and finally reaffirmed. "The Roman Catho-19 bbls. Epsom Salts, and a choice collection of Chemilic Church" is named distinctly. "Resistance" to it is propounded among the things credenda and the agenda. This is a test to which our religious principles and republican instincts, the spirit of our institutions and the libcrty of conscience, as interpreted by the age, are all opposed. No party holding it, however excellent be other principles held in combination, may expect to pass before the conservative people of the United States, especially of the South. The American Organ, the great newspaper leader

"Our friends must not be deceived-there has been no 'secession' of the North and Northwest from the American party-none at all-but simply a 'protest' by those states against certain portions of our platform, which negative the idea of a restoration of the Missouri Compromise of 1820, and involving, as before stated, a mere point of sectional policy-a naked abstract right, of no earthly value to either of the contending parties -a question which two years' time would adjust, if agitation were suppressed."

If this is true, then Southern Know-Nothings are still in alliance with the infamous abolitionist, Henry Wilson, and his horde of followers. Let Southern men reflect upon this. The American Organ says that there were no secession of the North and Northwest-that they only protested! Hence you are all in fellowship with Wilson & Co., according to the
